

The Pittsburgh Press

PITTSBURGH, PA. 15230

July 12, 1967

Dr. Henry W. Brosin
Director
Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic
3811 O'Hara Street
Pittsburgh, Pa. 15213

Dear Hank:

Thanks for sending along to Mr. Forster some samples of Joshua Lederberg's columns on "Science and Man." I didn't know he had branched out into journalism as well as exobiology.

Men of such talent sometimes threaten the emotional integrity of neurotic newspapermen like myself who lack such versatility. But I can always blame my shortcomings on my genes, and thus continue crossing bridges instead of jumping off them.

We appreciate your interest in The Press, and thank you for bringing Dr. Lederberg's column to our attention. I will check for additional details with my old science-writer friend, Howard Simons, who is now assistant managing editor of the Washington Post.

Sincerely,

John Troan
Associate Editor

JT:po'n